BRYAN TEXAS, THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1927

(By Associated Press)

NUMBER 3

VOLUME XLI

The People's Column

There should be a large crowd of Bryan and Brazos county citizens present Thursday afternoon when the business representatives of San Antonio, including the wholesale and manufacturing men of the Alamo City, will be in Bryan. They will come here from College in a special train, and have a 40-piece band with them. The goodwill tourists will first stop at College, and will be accompanied to Bryan by a local delegation. A large number of prizes will be given away, and local merchants are co-operating with the San Antonio business men to make tomorrow a big trades day. Practically every store in the city is offering special bargains for the day. Every citizen who possibly can find the time should meet and greet the San Antonio representatives, and let us extend to them the same royal welcome and reception that our goodwill tourists have been receiving all over the State.

ABOUT BRYAN

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Jackson of Houston are here for a visit to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Jackson of College Station. This is Mr. and Mrs. Jackson's first visit to Bryan since their marriage several months ago and they are being given the "glad hand" and extended congratulations and good wishes.

Mrs. E. G. Jenkins and little daughter Elizabeth of Nacogdoches arrived this afternoon for a visit to Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Jenkins. Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins met them at Hearn and they made the remainder of the trip to Bryan by auto.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lavinder, will have as guests in their home for the remainder of the week, Mrs. Lavinder's niece, Miss Marie Friend, who graduated with the 1927 senior class at the Southern Methodist University at Dallas this week, and who also graduated in pipe organ under Mrs. Cassidy of Dallas, giving her recital Monday night. Miss Friend's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Friend of Canyon, who were in Dallas to witness her graduation, accompanied her to Bryan for a visit. Mr. J. A. Friend and another brother of Mrs. Lavinder of Northlet, Arkansas, and his son, Erwin Friend, also arrived in Bryan today to visit in the Lavinder home.

The fig crop in Bryan is abundant. We have tangible evidence of it today when Mrs. C. L. Eden brought us a bag of the largest and most delicious ones we ever ate. Mrs. Eden tells us she has several trees and they are loaded with fruit.

Mrs. E. R. Bryant, wife of E. R. Bryant, manager of the J. C. Penney Store, is visiting her relatives in Iowa. This is her native state, and Mr. Bryant, too, formerly lived there.

The members of the health committee for Brazos county have decided to hold regular health conference at the court house only on the first Thursday in each month, while the other conferences will be held in various towns over the county.

Miss Geraldine Grout, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Grout of College, has returned from C. I. A., where she had the Bachelor of Arts degree conferred upon her. Mr. and Mrs. Grout and Miss Ruth Watkins motored to Denton to witness the graduation exercises.

Texas Pecan Growers' Ass'n. To Meet In Gonzales Second Week In July For Convention

(By Associate Press) GONZALES, June 8.—Here in the Guadalupe Valley, where approximately 5,000,000 pounds of pecans were harvested last year, 400 members of the Texas Pecan Growers' Association are to assemble the second week in July for their annual convention.

They will be shown thousands of acres of pecan trees, some cultivated but for the most part growing wild from which a revenue of about $550,000 was derived in 1926. The figures are those of W. E. Donovan, secretary-manager of the Gonzales Chamber of Commerce. A check on car load shipments, he announces, shows 103 cars. Express and less than car loads shipments he figures were about 11 cars and shipments by trucks to San Antonio and other nearby points added 12 car loads or a total of

WAR DEP'T. GIVES ALLEN ACADEMY HONOR RATING

FIRST SCHOOL IN TEXAS EVER TO BE GIVEN HONOR RATING

Secretary of War Sends Congratulations to Allen Academy Officials; New Honor places The School on a Par With the Culver Military Academy

(By Associated Press).

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 8.—Fifteen academies maintaining exceptionally efficient reserve officer training corps units were designated by the War Department as honor schools for the year. The schools were selected from institutions among the essentially military schools. The honor schools for 1927 include Allen Academy, Bryan, Texas.

The Allen Academy received the following telegram today from Washington: "Allen Academy selected as honor military school. The Secretary of War extends congratulations." (Signed) WAHL, Acting to the Adjutant General at Washington.

The Allen Academy is the first school in Texas ever to be given the honor rating. The local school has been given the inspection for the past several years, but this is the first year it has won the honor rating. This honor places Allen Academy on a par with Culver and other nationally famous military academies. Allen Academy, which was established in 1886, is the oldest school of its kind in Texas and its progress has been gradual but steady. The awarding of this honor is considered the greatest accomplishment in the history of the school. Captain George W. Griner is commandant of the academy, with Sergeant C. B. Jones as assistant. N. B. Allen, whose father was one of the founders of the school, is the principal.

(By Associated Press). Interview lasted 18 minutes. The president handed each of his visitors a fine framed autographed portrait of himself. After questioning Americans as to details of their flight, he expressed the hope that it would contribute to bringing American and German peoples in closer communion. Traffic Suspended Navasota Bridge

It was stated in the State highway engineer's office this morning that it will require at least a week to repair the bridge over the river at Navasota. A crew of engineers and laborers left Bryan early this morning to start repairing the bridge.

(Navasota Examiner). Traffic over the Navasota river bridge on the K. T. highway three miles north of town was today suspended temporarily, possibly for a week, according to information from the division engineer, J. E. Blair, at Bryan.

Col. Oscar A. Seward, county engineer, talked with Mr. Blair today and he was informed that it might be necessary to use a detour road for about a week. It is said that a pile driver will be secured and repairs made just as quickly as possible. The precarious condition of the bridge is said to have been caused by an undermining by high water or other causes of one pier on the north side of the stream. This has caused the bridge to settle until there is a considerable sag in the middle section and it is deemed unsafe.

Traffic is being detoured from Navasota west to the bridge on the Washington County road and from there a road through farms is followed in a northwesterly direction until the highway is reached near Millican. This bridge is an important one, forming the connecting link between Grimes and Brazos counties on a principal highway, which is under supervision of the State Highway Department.

FUTURE OF 47 MILLIONS NOW UP TO MOODY

GOVERNOR MOODY AND HIS BLUE PENCIL COMMANDING INTEREST

Only 44 Millions

SOME BELIEVE ADVALOREM TAX OF 30 CENTS WILL BE ENOUGH

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, June 8.—The fate of appropriations totaling more than $47,000,000 which are under Governor Moody's blue pencil, commanded the center of interest today after the special session of the legislature adjourned last night. Only about $44,000,000 is to come out of the general revenue, however. Finance committeemen of the house and senate express the belief that the advalorem tax rate of about 30 cents will produce the necessary revenue even if the Governor vetoes none of the appropriations.

Musical Pageant To Be Staged At Sue Haswell Park

For the benefit of the Sue Haswell Memorial Park the beautiful musical pageant "The Crowning of Josephine," which was given a few weeks ago in this city will be produced at the park on Friday, June 10, at 7:30 p. m. This pageant is given by Bryan children gorgeously costumed and with trained choruses and drills, and according to those who saw it at the Palace theatre several weeks ago is one of the best local talent affairs ever seen in Bryan. The benefit for the park at this time should attract all citizens as it is to help put the park in first class condition for the pleasure of all the people. The small admission fee of 25 cents for children and 35 cents for adults will be charged. Watch for further advertisement.

Famous Texas Cotton Concern Advises Farmers To Grow New Certified Staple For Premium

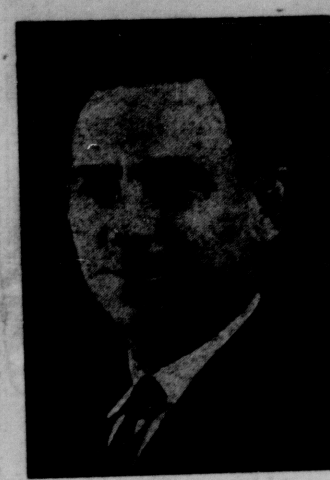

(By Associated Press) HOUSTON, June 8.—One of the world's most important cotton concerns in Houston has gathered information relative to certified cotton which it advises farmers to plant because it commands a premium.

It shows how superior cotton may be grown by the farmer himself if he desires, but the process requires a number of years; and sets out experiences of individuals who have found that it is a community proposition, rather than an individual undertaking, to secure best results.

At McKinney, Texas, it appears, farmers and merchants several years ago began to hear reports that cotton in a neighborhood city was bringing a premium. An investigation disclosed that better seed had been planted. A few scattered farmers took it up under the direction of Roy F. Saunders, county agent. In 1923 he called a meeting of cotton farmers, cotton buyers, merchants, bankers, ginners and others connected with the industry. He demonstrated by comparison in the field the superiority of cotton grown from certified seed over that of mongrel gin-run seed. Each year the standardization meetings were held principally at a cotton mill where the waste in cotton grown from ordinary gin-run seed, due to lack of fiber uniformity, was practically demonstrated. Correspondingly each year a large percentage of farmers planted the same type or strain of certified seed.

No Premium Gradual but steady progress was made during the first several years toward standardization but

Southwestern U. Not To Be Moved From Georgetown

GEORGETOWN, June 8.—Resolutions opposing the removal of Southwestern University to another city were passed Tuesday by the board of trustees of the university after which the board officially announced that no offer for its removal had been considered by any official of the university and that none would be considered. The reports submitted to the trustees showed the university has just passed through the greatest year in its history.

The official statement in part follows: "The Southwestern university is at Georgetown by an agreement on the part of the annual conference in Texas and sanctioned by the board of education of the Methodist church, which agreement merges into an obligation both moral and legal. No offer whatever has been considered by any official of the university to change its location and none will be considered. The school now is in the midst of the greatest building program in its history, its patronage was never better, nor its patrons better satisfied; the students were never of higher grade, more loyal or more enthusiastic. The trustees were never more hopeful of the future and they call on its friends throughout the state to help build here a greater and better Southwestern."

The second division is the only division, every member in which was awarded the Fourragere of the Croix de Guerre. Most of the first division also wears the decoration, but several of the minor units of the division did not receive the reward. This decoration, given by the French Government signifies a blanket award of Croix de Guerres to every member of

Howell Speaks To Steep Hollow Club At Friday's Meet

The Steep Hollow boys' and girls' club held an interesting meeting Friday night, June 3, reporting 100 per cent of members present. It will be remembered that Steep Hollow won first place in the Howell Lumber Company contest, and the enthusiastic meeting Friday night would indicate that this same club is out after honors again.

W. S. Howell chairman of the agricultural committee of the Bryan Chamber of Commerce, was present at the meeting and made a talk, complimenting the Steep Hollow club on the splendid report they had made. In speaking concerning the prizes being offered for the encouragement of club work by the Howell Lumber Co., Mr. Howell said he thought every public spirited citizen ought to consider it an opportunity worth while in contributing toward the advancement of the boys and girls of this county and state.

Moody Wants Someone To Offer Plan To Eliminate Duplication Of Work And Expense, He Says

AUSTIN, June 8.—Governor Dan Moody late today put the legislature on notice that he will renew his advocacy at a later session, of the major subjects of his program defeated at this special session.

In a farewell address to the house, the governor, urbane and smiling, noted that a special session ended tonight did not do several things he wanted done, but that he was not "finding fault with anyone."

He was presumed to be referring mainly to civil service, highway and prison legislation, all lost.

"I thought and still think that the measures are for the public good. You can be assured that I'm going to invite you back here some time and submit them again. I hope by that time that some of you who disagreed with me will have seen the merit I believe in them by that time."

"No one can be blamed for disagreeing. That is a great American prerogative."

Date of Session Uncertain Moody did not say when he will call the session, but those claiming to have a good idea about it say it probably will be about next September or October.

Moody Wants Someone To Offer Plan To Eliminate Duplication Of Work And Expense, He Says

The governor mildly chided what he termed a tendency in some quarters to disapprove any "turning from the ideas of the fathers."

"In some instances," he said, "that is good, but in others I think, not so good. This is a growing state and certainly there is some justifiable demand for changes to meet the calls of progress."

On the other hand, he warned of a tendency to centralize control of public affairs in Austin, by those seeking quick action on local and sectional problems. "I think the fortieth legislature has been a success. That is, outside of the appropriation bills. I haven't seen them yet."

"I hope some one will return to the next session with a plan to eliminate duplication of work and expense in state affairs. Every time the legislature meets, there is some new effort to create new centralization of power and much of it is duplication. In centralization, there seems to be no definite thought to coordination. I just want you to remember that every duplication and addition means spending $2 where only $1 possibly should have been spent."

Rains that are falling in every section of the State will be of untold benefit to Texas. This has been an unusually dry year, some sections of the State having had only one rain. A prosperous fall seems more imminent every day.

The annual production of cottonseed products in Texas amounts to a little more than $60,000,000 a year. There are many old timers who remember when cotton seed were considered worthless except as cow feed.

The Legislature has acted wisely in defeating the Wood higher education board, which would have enabled one school of the State to dominate the others. The evils of such a bill were greater than the possible benefits. Texas has too many boards now.

Bryan more than produces its quota of tourists. A number of our citizens are going to take long trips this summer, Alaska and the Holy Lands being on the itinerary of some of them. Through her tourists, Bryan becomes the neighbors of those throughout the world.

Chamberlain and Lindbergh cannot lay claim to all of the records. One kind of record for trans-Atlantic flights is held by Joao de Barros, Brazilian aviator. He flew the plane Jahu from Genoa to Pernambuco in eight months. He holds the endurance record.

All members of the park board will back up the invitation given by one of them to the citizenship of Bryan to make greater use of the attractive Sue Haswell Memorial park that has been provided for them. No more delightful recreation spot can be found. Take advantage of it.

More defenders of modern youth are bobbing up all of the time. Lady Armstrong, of the British consul general, who has been in welfare work for a quarter of a century, says that the modern girl is more pious than her predecessors. This is one of the highest compliments that can be paid the modern girl.

John D. Rockefeller is now as interested in golf as he used to be making dividends from oil. Becoming disgruntled with his terrible mark of "54" on his private course at Pocantico Hills, he has returned to his home at Lakewood, N. J., to see if he can break the jinx on his private course there. He still likes to win.

Dan Moody, as Governor, received his first setback when the Senate voted down his civil service bill. As we scan the list of the Senators who voted for and against the bill, one wonders if it were the merits or demerits of the bill that prompted their action. Perhaps Texas is not ready for efficiency in government.

F. H. Chandler of Stephenville, president of the Texas Cheese and Butter Company has announced that he is planning to build a series of cheese factories in Texas. Most of them are to be in the western portion of the state. The Chamber of Commerce should see what can be done about getting one of these factories for Bryan. We need such factories.

Another American has met death in the terrorized country of Mexico. Arthur Brewer, coal merchant of Mexico City and former captain of the Harvard football team of 1895, was shot by a Mexican as a result of a quarrel over business matters. It is impossible to throw a mantle of protection around those who seek fortune in revolutionary Mexico.

Pilot Clarence Chamberlain and Charles Levine, flying in the giant monoplane, "Columbia," bettered Charles Lindbergh's non-stop record by 110 miles. This was a remarkable feat, but it will not occasion near the comment of Lindbergh's accomplishment. The one who is first is the one who received the glory as is indicated by the old adage, "the early bird gets the worm."

W. S. Howell, chairman of the agricultural committee of the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce, and others from here made addresses at the Steep Hollow Boys' and Girls' Club Friday night. The value of this work on the part of the local body is unestimable. It not only encourages the building of better community life, but also tends to cement the city and rural sections. Many clubs through out the State overlook the value of this service, which means that it is even more important that Bryan should carry it out.

Tangible evidence of the bigness of Texas is found in the fact that a bale of new cotton is produced in South Texas while cotton is still being planted in North Texas.

Texas has lost a pioneer of the cotton industry in the death of Robert Gibson, secretary of the Interstate and Texas State Cotton Seed Crushers' Association, who passed away at Dallas. At the age of 92, he was still active in his life's work.

The American people sympathize with President Calles in the death of his wife. Calles has done much for the advancement of Mexico, and has always shown a willingness to go half way with Kellogg and other American diplomats in promoting peace between the two countries.

A resolution has been adopted calling for a mass meeting of public-spirited citizens in the Hall of the House of Representatives at Austin June 6 to discuss seven proposed constitutional amendments adopted by the House. Some method must be used to acquaint the people with the purposes and needs of these amendments in order that an intelligent constitutional amendment in Texas has about as much chance as the Democratic party in a national election.

"Let every kindred, ever tribe, On this terrestrial ball, To him all majesty ascribe, And crown him King of all."

King Cotton, who has been much cussed and discussed during the past eight months, finds himself coming into his own again. We read that in the magic Rio Grande Valley the first bales have been gathered, while in other sections of the State the crop is just being planted. For a number of weeks the cotton market has been swinging upward, and we find the hope of Texas again pinned in King Cotton. The people of this section are looking forward to a prosperous fall as the price probably will be much higher than a year ago and the yield again large. We are anticipating the time when the whistle of the cotton gin may be heard, and the white wagons and trucks of the fleecy staple will stage a pageant down our streets. We can cuss cotton all we may, but during the past 25 years the cotton farmer has made more money than either the wheat or corn farmer. Furthermore, there is more romance, more fascination, and more charm in viewing and in growing one acre of cotton than there is in raising 100 acres of wheat or corn. The cotton farmer frequently feels the pinch of depression, but it is never the fault of cotton. The blame lies elsewhere. We would do well to remember the words of the commencement speaker at A. and M., when he said Monday that the farmer must quit looking to the government to try to give him relief, but he should turn the spotlight upon himself and study his own conditions, the markets, the economic changes and the trend of the world's events. Apply the same industry and the same study and the same management to the farm that the successful man in any other line of endeavor devotes to his work, and we never will hear the unjust cry that "cotton is ruining the South." Hail King Cotton, the King of crops.

At noon a bountiful and delicious luncheon was served in the home dining room. In the center of the table, was the birthday cake with 82 tiny candles all burning in a blaze of beauty, and the table a dream of loveliness in its appointments.

Those seated around the table were: Mrs. John McCorquodale, Mrs. Laura Gooch, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Buchanan, M. G. Buchanan, of Bryan; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lee Stacy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Herndon and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schawe, all of Houston.

Brazos County Public Health Board Active

The Brazos County Public Health Board held its regular June meeting on Friday afternoon at the office of Miss Ella Bandelin.

The nurse's report for the months of April and May showed a very active schedule. Special conferences had been held; a colored health center in company with the negro nurse Adaline, who had been sent to Brazos county by the State Health Department.

The outstanding project mentioned in this report was the completion of a dental survey which included all but 2 of the rural school in Brazos county. A total of 1259 children were examined in this survey and only 69 of this number were found to have teeth in perfect condition.

The health board voted to go on record as endorsing the work of this survey, and appreciating the splendid cooperation of local dentists who gave so generously of their time and by so doing made the completed survey possible.

Rainfall In Bryan .95 Inch Last Night

(From Tuesday's Daily)

Bryan and immediate section was visited by a much needed rain Monday afternoon about six o'clock, which registered .95 inch according to the U. S. standard gauge maintained by the Eagle Printing Company. The rain is reported to have been heavier at Edge and Kurten. It extended all the way to Navasota on the South and 6 miles of Hearne on the North.

Corn is reported to be in need of rain, in fact many farmers have said within the past few days that it will suffer unless rain comes soon. While last nights rain is not considered sufficient here, it will give some relief and in many places it is reported enough to be of real benefit to corn and other crops.

"How Much Did You Get?" Asks Preacher's Wives

Have you ever noticed that after the wedding the preacher usually stood around until the groom's appreciation was expressed in a monetary way?

It is not that the preacher cares about the money but he knows that when he reaches home, the first question his anxious wife will ask is:

"How much did you get?" Bryan pastors have been kept busier officiating for Cupid this month than usual. June is noted for being a month of weddings.

One local pastor reports that he participated in an official way in several weddings, and his remuneration has varied from $1 to $10. He says he always renders the same service.

Preachers tell many interesting stories based upon the fees received from performing wedding ceremonies.

Once a preacher performed the ceremony for a wealthy young groom, and at the end of the ceremony he was handed a pair of gloves. He was enraged and left with his gloves in disgust. When he arrived home his good wife wanted him to show his con skins.

"These gloves are all I received; I believe I will throw 'em in the fire," he retorted disgruntledly.

His inquiring wife asked to see them. She tried them on and much to her surprise, there was a crisp $10 bill in each finger and thumb.

Once a pastor spent about $25 traveling expenses to perform the ceremony of a youthful friend. At the end of the ceremony the boy said: "I'll see you later."

The preacher went home in disgust and felt that his young friend had been very unkind. A year later he unexpectedly received a letter from the boy, and in it was enclosed a $100 check. After that the pastor said he always had the patience of Job in dealing with youthful grooms.

Upon another occasion a preacher was handed five envelopes after the ceremony, and the name of a member of the family was written upon each one. When he got home he passed them around. Each member of the family found a $5 bill therein except the pastor. There was a nickel in his.

Deep Test To Be Spudded In Near Navasota Today

(Navasota Examiner)

Today will mark the spudding in of another deep test for oil in Grimes county, according to G. A. Schnauffer of Corsicana, who is now making his headquarters in Navasota.

Mr. Schnauffer, experienced in the oil business, has succeeded in entering Grimes county for a deep test, among who are said to be John T. Sanders, L. L. Steele and W. A. Rieter, well known oil men of Mexico, who are determined to make a thorough test to be drilled to a depth of 3,250 feet unless oil in paying quantity should be found at a shallower depth.

The site of this new test is located about one and a half miles from the town of Piedmont, in the northwest corner of the G. S. Balck farm in the C. O. Edwards survey. A standard derrick 112 feet high is already standing over the spot where operations will be started Friday.

J. C. McFarland, drilling contractor of Fort Worth, has contract for putting down the well and has placed Jack Dozier of Waco in charge as foreman on this job. It is said that two towers of workmen will be used, keeping the drilling going day and night in order that it may be rushed.

Logical Location

The location for this well is considered a logical one for bringing in a producer. It is said to be the first well drilled east of a big "fault" which extends through that part of the county, 55 degrees east of north, for a distance of some three or four miles. Prominent geologists have been working in that section for the past several months locating a sub-surface structure and made such favorable reports to their companies that they have secured considerable acreage in that locality, and geologists representing the larger companies are now visiting the field regularly. The location of this well was first approved by Lloyd North, chief geologist for The Texas Company, approved by C. L. Baker, chief geologist for the Rio Bravo Oil Co., subsidiary to the Southern Pacific railroad, and later approved by W. A. Rieter, who made a complete geological survey of the block and approved the same location as the others. Mr. Rieter was formerly with the Rieter-Foster Oil company and is reputed to be a geologist of note. It is considered fortunate that he has become interested in the Grimes County proposition.

Hopes Entertained

Grimes county has been looked upon by the oil fraternity for some time as having great possibilities for big production and gas has already been found in big quantities in the Carlos area. Acreage in this block is said to be selling at a premium now and it is expected that before this test is very far advanced the demand will be greater.

In addition to the Piedmont activity there seems to be interest in other parts of the county as several drilling blocks have been gotten up in the vicinity of Navasota, Carlos and Piedmont, there being something like a dozen of the major companies holding acreage around Piedmont and Carlos.

Navasota is the center of activity for the present and will probably continue so, oil men and scouts making their headquarters here on account of accommodations and rail facilities.

SEEING TEXAS FIRST

In company with Bob Irvine of Caldwell's jewelry store, and joined at Cameron by W. M. Cobb, the city editor of the Eagle Saturday and Sunday made a tour of one of the most interesting sections of Texas. Among the towns visited were Hearne, Cameron, Rogers, Temple, Belton, Killeen, Copperas Cove, Kempner, and Lampasas.

The first stop was made at Hearne. In conversation with Billy Myers of Myers & Thomas Drug store, it was learned that business conditions in Hearne are good. Hearne is a railroad town, and because of the large pay roll that is spent there every month, this town has not been pinched by the cotton depression as have many other towns in the State. It used to be that railroad people spent much of their money away from home, but now most of them no longer have this pernicious habit.

Cameron, which is in the heart of Milam county, one of the leading cotton sections in Texas, is facing the future with confidence. Old-timers there state that crops were never better at this time of the year. There is plenty of feed, the corn crop is excellent, and the cotton prospects are bright. Cameron has had two years of depression, but has stood its reverses courageously. This little city is one of the many in Texas that depends almost entirely for its prosperity upon the yield and price of cotton.

Belton county's crops as a whole are considerably inferior to those of Milam and Brazos counties, but if rains continue, this county, too, will enjoy a bumper crop. Belton is another of the leading cotton producers of Texas. Rogers, which is the first town you meet in Belton, is typical of those localities that have deteriorated with the tendency of the Twentieth Century for many people to leave the farms and small towns and go to the city. Rogers is not as good a town as it was 15 years ago, and most of its ambitious young men and women are seeking fame and fortune elsewhere. The town has had several bad fires in the business section, and the buildings were never replaced.

Temple, which has a population of about 18,000, has for its motto "Progressive Temple." A number of years ago, when paved streets were very few, this sign was erected across a street in a most conspicuous place. A farmer came to town with his wagon and stuck up in the black mud just beneath this sign, causing Temple to be the subject of considerable levity over the State. The people of Temple decided that either they would have to take down this sign or be progressive and pave their streets. They elected to do the latter, and now have one of the most modern cities of its size in Texas.

Temple, of course, is noted for being the home town of Jim Ferguson, but this is not all. There are three of the leading hospitals in the State located there, and patients come to this city from every section of Texas and from many other states. Temple also has one of the best equipped newspaper offices in the United States in the Temple Daily Telegram, which has been one of Temple's best assets. This paper is owned by E. K. Williams, who worked his way from a printer to a big newspaper publisher. Possessing the energy of a Nelson of the Kansas City Star and the versatility of Benjamin Franklin, he has developed a newspaper plant far ahead of the city, and one that has evoked much favorable comment in trade journals throughout the nation. His accomplishments disprove that old saying that a business man is held down by the size of his town.

Belton, the home of Baylor College for girls, is an attractive little city that has one of the prettiest parks in the South. Bob Irvine said it reminded him of one in Philadelphia. With giant shade trees, much playground equipment and a clear stream running through it, the spacious park is a haven of rest for all of Belton county. Belton is many years older than Temple, but a political mistake of years ago, when the city officials did not have the vision to realize the value of having the M. K. & T. railroad to come through the city, prevented the town from growing rapidly. and was directly responsible for the building of Temple, which then was nothing but a broad prairie. It is interesting to note what a large part the railroads have had in the founding and building of Texas towns.

Killeen, which has some very fertile fields as well as some high hills that almost reach mountainous heights, is a trading center for a large territory. Despite financial reverses, due to the low price of cotton and the short crop of cotton of 1925, the people of this little city have gone right ahead, and now have one of the most modern and commodious school houses in Central West Texas. W. J. Walker, superintendent of schools has made a phenomenal record.

The drive through the miniature mountains from Killeen to Copperas Cove is somewhat similar to the high drive between Garden

City, Kansas and LaJunta, Colorado, and one of the scenic spots of the State. It rained on us all the way from Temple, and at Copperas Cove we were forced to stay at the hotel until morning. The frame building, used as a hotel, is typical, and was the nearest approach to camping out that we had experienced since last summer. Hotel owners claim that they lose millions of dollars each year through petty theft on the part of the guests, who frequently take silverware, towels, blankets, and many other articles. The owner of this hotel said no one ever tried to steal anything from it in the past 35 years. The civic leaders probably use this argument as an advertisement for the honesty of the people.

Lampasas, which is one of the oldest towns in Texas, is coming back into its own. Old-timers say that in the eighties they had a palatial hotel in Hancock park, that was the mecca for tourists from all over the nation. About 15 years ago they drilled for oil there, and instead of finding oil, they brought in a fine sulphur well. This well had been closed down for several years, but has been reopened. It is as good mineral water as that found in Mineral Wells. In the Hancock park, where there are many summer cottages used by the Baptists for their encampment, they already have a large number of tourists. The old hanna springs bath house has been closed down, but a new bathing pool has been erected near the famous Abney mineral well.

The Allen Academy band recently gave a concert in Lampasas, and its citizens there said "that was a wonderful band." It made a fine impression there, and the people are still talking about it. Lampasas has a woman for secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and she is a live wire.

Lampasas county is one of the richest counties in Texas per capita. The amount of wealth there is enormous, and there perhaps are more expensive homes there than in any other town in Texas its size. It has two huge dry goods stores in Stokes Brothers and Sennerit-Andrew Co., that attract customers for 60 to 85 miles. With the exception of Scarborough's, Austin does not have any dry goods stores that are larger.

This county produces, cotton, corn, wheat, oats, sheep, turkeys, and chickens, and the wool trade is especially large. Lampasas country farmers have money the year around, and practice diversification thoroughly. There is a big hardware store there, Fox and Mills. Mr. Mills went to school with our fellowtownsman, H. O. Boatwright. They stated that last month they had the largest business they had experienced in four years, and that practically everything they sold to the farmers was paid for in cash.

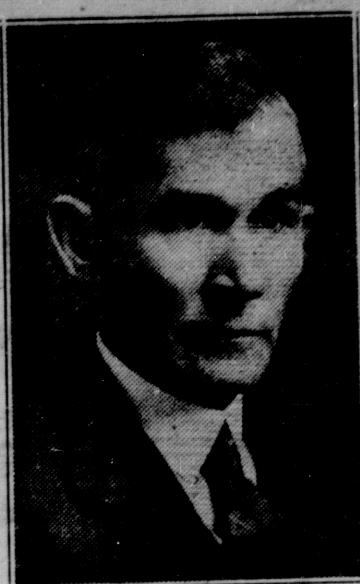

The prosperity of Lampasas is reflected in the fact that about a half dozen of the young ladies of the town are going to New York this summer to study. Miss Emily Frances Key of Lampasas was "Miss West Texas," at the recent West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Wichita Falls. She was in Bryan during the R. V. dances.

Armstrong And Cobb Are Lions' Club Nominees For President; Bessie Stuckey Given Tuition

Bob Armstrong, popular Bryan attorney, and Ty Cobb were chosen as nominees for president of the Bryan Lions club at an election held at Tuesday's luncheon. An election will be held next week to determine the president. By secret ballot, each member wrote his choice for president, the two members receiving the highest number of votes to be the nominees. Bob Armstrong, Ty Cobb, Jess E. Hensarling and J. Bryan Miller received votes for the office following a statement by President F. D. Fuller that he would not consider re-election.

Bob Irvine gave an interesting classification talk, using the jewelry industry as his subject. He told of many phases of it unknown to the average man.

Upon the suggestion of J. Bryan Miller, President Fuller appointed the following committee to work with the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce officials in entertaining the San Antonio goodwill tourists here Thursday: Bob Armstrong, chairman; Jess E. Hensarling, and M. M. Erskine. Members of the club were asked to furnish cars for the occasion.

Miss Bessie Stuckey, a graduate of the Bryan high school was introduced to the club as the winner of the scholarship to Droughan's Business College presented by the club. She made a talk of appreciation.

An auditing committee, composed of Willard Chambers and J. Bryan Miller, was appointed to check over the books of the club and to report at the meeting on Tuesday, June 28, which will be the final session during President Fuller's administration.

M. M. Erskine reported on the progress being made in constructing the wading pool in the Sue Haswell Memorial Park, which is to be donated by the Lions Club.

Noah W. Dansby who returned to the club last week from Dallas drew the attendance prize.

The following were present: Maurice Schulman, Bob Irvine, E. R. Bryant, Ross M. Sherwood, J. Coulter Smith, Harry S. Edge, C. H. Lehman of Houston, J. Bryan Miller, M. M. Erskine, J. H. Bolton, C. M. Halsell, R. E. Bosque, H. H. Young, J. M. Ferguson, R. V. Armstrong, J. E. Henson, Noah W. Dansby, Willard Chambers, Miss Bessie Stuckey, Mrs. Roy Danforth, F. D. Fuller, Thos. Gordon Watts, R. C. Franks, Norman Dansby, L. L. Stephens, Jess E. Hensarling, Ty Cobb.

running from 9 1/2 cents to as high as 60 cents per pound. Taking 11 cents as a very modest estimate for an average price, makes the revenue to Gonzales county from pecans run to about $550,000 for the year. This revenue placed in circulation is decidedly noticeable following the depressed price of cotton.

Close to Throne

It may be gathered from Mr. Donovan that if the pecan is not king in Gonzales county, it never-the-less stands near the throne. Car lot buyers, he said, are eager to purchase the crop and are willing to pay a premium of three or four cents a pound above the outside market because, he says, of the superior quality and flavor of the nuts.

"There are thousands and thousands of acres," he says, "of native groves along the valleys of the Guadalupe and San Marcos rivers and several smaller streams traversing the county, lined on either side with the native pecan timber. For the most part these groves have been sadly neglected and allowed to grow with other timber and underbrush. An intelligent clearing and thinning of this native timber will easily double the present yield and there are great possibilities in top-working those of the trees which are shy bearers or which bear an inferior nut."

Good Future

Dr. Donevan thinks, moreover, that a considerable opportunity exists in his neighborhood for commercial pecan orchards. "The rich valleys of the San Marcos and Guadalupe rivers," he said, "extend back from those streams for a considerable distance. When these lands were first settled by the pioneers, little care was taken to protect the pecan trees, in fact a great deal of this timber was destroyed in clearing the land on account of the small value of the nut. Because of this destruction Gonzales county has thousands of acres of rich valley lands that have been used for field crops for many years which are the most favorable lands in the world for establishing commercial groves. There need be no guesswork or hesitancy about the adaptability of these lands, nature herself has established groves here a hundred years ago."

Pecan growing Mr. Donovan regarded as offering the greatest return on the smallest investment—one of the world's greatest investments, he called it. Almost any kind of a crop, he said, can be grown on the land while the pecan groves are maturing.

"The certainty of production," he said, "the hardness and long life of the pecan tree, the facility with which the nuts are gathered and shipped, the rapidly growing popularity and the surety of a welcome market at generous profits give pecans and pecan growing the possibilities that will easily stagger the imagination."

Meanwhile interest in pecans has reached a point where the annual county fair henceforth will be known as the Gonzales County Fair and Pecan Exposition.

cotton buyer created a special class into which he placed all cotton from standardized growers and paid a premium for it.

"You see we are not compelled to sell it," one cotton buyer at McKinney was quoted as having said of the 1926 crop, and the reason was, he said, because "there is always a standing demand from the mills for cotton of uniform staple."

$5 Premium

J. E. Maynor, a cotton farmer near McKinney was quoted as saying that for the certified cotton he received $5 a bale premium on a bigger yield than for his other cotton.

M. H. Woodruff, merchant, according to his version, estimated that certified cotton has brought farmers near McKinney $50,000 more than if it had been grown from ordinary seed.

Dr. C. G. Comegy, McKinney banker, thought so much of the project that he said he would "lend the farmers who plant the certified seed just a little more money than the other fellow, because he is worth it."

OF INTEREST IN BRYAN

The following from the Sunday issue of the Waco News Tribune will be read with interest by Bryan friends:

"Mrs. J. J. Taubenhaus of College Station, who was in Waco recently for the Hadassah-Zionist convention, and who gave her resignation at the time as publicity chairman of the fourth district, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, has interesting news from her sister, Mrs. Nina H. Adlerblum of New York. Dr. Adlerblum has just received her Ph. D. from Columbia university, and aboard the S. S. California, bound for Palestine under direction of Thomas Cook and Son, she will give a unique 'shipboard course' on the history of Palestine, its significance and present day development. There will be a university course for students, a popular series of lectures for adults, and a simpler one for children. Dr. Adlerblum is to organize Hebrew speaking clubs aboard ship to acquaint the tourists somewhat with the language. Dr. Adlerblum is well known for her writing on Jewish philosophy and history."

Conviction For Stream Pollution Secured In Texas

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 8.—Plea of guilty on a charge of stream pollution was entered Monday by the Phillips Petroleum company in Shackleford county, Will J. Tucker, state game, fish and oyster commissioner was advised.

The conviction is the first of its kind in Texas and grew out of the allegation that the company allowed oil and waste to go into Hubbard Creek, tributary to the Brazos river, Tucker said.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Roberts of El Paso, are in Bryan for a visit with his mother, Mrs. W. J. Roberts, and his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Danforth and family.

Club Notes and Farm News By County Agent C. L. Beason

Value of Chemists

The chemist has always been a potent factor in the progress of the world, making civilization's stride sure through the dark and hidden places.

Just now when the demand for wood pulp for paper uses up some five million cords of wood each year, the chemist comes to our rescue and assures us that there need be no alarm over the seeming destruction of American forests, consumed for paper and other uses, since the annual production of 200,000,000 tons of corn stalks may be, through the Dorner process, substituted for wood pulp, and adding millions of dollars to the income of American farmers for this heretofore waste product.

Many of the great industries of today, using up large quantities of farm products once considered of little value, are the results of the work of the chemist, and his work in revealing the possibilities of the waste products of the farm has only begun.

Eggs Cost 20c Dozen

Some months ago we were told that the low cost of feed enabled the poultryman to produce eggs at lower cost. Now that feed is going skyward and the price of eggs downward what of the future? At the poultry meeting held Monday night, D. F. Irving, poultry husbandman of the A. and M. College stated that the average cost of production of eggs for the past three years at the National Egg-Laying Contest, College Station, Texas, had been around 20 cents per dozen. Taking this as a basis, one can readily see that there could be no profit to the farmer who is now selling eggs at ten cents a dozen, notwithstanding the fact that the cost of production on the farm might be lower than that at the contest. The present situation is unsatisfactory to the poultry raiser, and may result in many going out of the business, but it is believed that there will be a brighter future for those who are able to survive.

Watch Cultivation

Club members having field crops for projects should look well to the cultivation of their crops, always seeing that a dust mulch is made after each rain. Jerry Moore the club boy who made more than 200 bushels of corn per acre, is reported to have stopped plowing his corn when it was ready to harvest.

Has Fine Corn

Milton Sims, one of the leading farmers in the Brazos Valley, has a field of very early maturing corn the variety being Diamond Joe's Big White. Some years ago County Agent Beason bred up some very fine corn from this variety, and he will cooperate with Mr. Sims in a similar undertaking in the Brazos Valley. A great many people say that Brazos county is no corn country, and this may be true, but the production per acre can be materially increased by better seed selection, better cultivation, and proper fertilization. If by giving heed to these three factors we can increase the production per acre only five bushels, it would add to our annual corn crop more than 100,000 bushels. The possibilities are even much greater. Too many of us plant any and every variety of corn, with the results that some time we make a good crop, but as often fail. The Experiment Station right here at our door, could render us some valuable help.

Millican

MILLICAN, June 8.—Mrs. Jeff Royder and children of Goose Creek are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McGregor.

F. H. Pool Jr., who teaches vocational work at East Bernard, brought some of his boys to College station last week. Returning he came by to see his parents and take his wife and baby home with him. Mrs. Pool had brought her little daughter on a visit to her great-grand mother, Mrs. M. C. Meredith.

"The Sunbeam," "Messenger of Death" it should be, sniffed out another life near here a few days ago. And why the need of such a mad rush? Just to gratify a supremacy of rival roads for quick service, and who do they serve? Many lives are sacrificed. Our railroad commission will have much to answer for on "That Great Day."

Parent-Teachers Stage A Round-up

As announced in The Eagle several days ago, the Bryan Parent Teachers' Association of the East and West Sides, held the Summer Round-up of pre school children for Bryan, Wednesday afternoon, 2 p. m. at the office of the county health nurse, Miss Ella Bandelin at the court house. The survey was made by Mrs. H. B. McDowell, president of the East Side P. T. A. and her helpers, and Mrs. Frank Ripper, president of the West Side P. T. A. with her committees.

Twenty-two children were examined by Dr. W. H. Oliver and Dr. W. B. Cline, who kindly gave their professional services to assist the P. T. A. in its work. A few extreme defects were found, but the majority of the children were physically normal, healthy and well nourished, which fact was a gratification, and also a proof of good results of the health program, which has been carried on in Brazos county for the past several years.

Miss Katherine Hagquist, of Austin, State Advisory Nurse was present and assisted in the examination, and in the work of record and report. Miss Ella Bandelin, Brazos County Health Nurse, also assisted.

The P. T. A. workers of Bryan had charge of this Summer Round-up were: Mrs. H. B. McDowell, Mrs. Frank Ripper, Mrs. Elton Stuart, Mrs. R. K. Reppert, Mrs. J. M. Williams, Mrs. Charley Andrews.

Examination of the children from 6 to 8 years of age, who will enter the city schools with the opening of the September term 1927, so they may not be hindered in their school work by physical defects, is proof that the Parent-Teachers' Association is working true to its motto and slogan "The love of Childhood is the common tie, which should unite us in the holiest purposes."
